

Search a Head Solution is an all-embracing application developed for consulting companies active in the field of executive search.

The application has been under development for several years in close cooperation with executive search companies and represents the most integrated solution of everyday needs for companies operating in the executive search sector.

Search a Head Solution

captures the entire agenda accompanying the direct search of a candidate. It records detailed information on candidates, provides an extensive search feature using a number of attributes (among other things using function and industry codes), records the history of communication with the candidate and the client alike, tracks off-limits both for the candidate and the company, automatically generates customized reports (long list, short list, progress report, confidential report, etc.), enables sending records directly from the application. It provides a feature of tracking and analyzing statistical information such as duration of a project, acquisition method, etc.

Search a Head Solution

is created as an Internet application, as a result of which it is accessible online from any computer connected to the Internet. However, limiting access only to selected computers is possible. It is non-demanding in terms of hardware and no additional software needs to be installed. During its development, emphasis was placed on simplicity, effective use and modularity enabling customization of the application to suit the individual needs of every executive search company. As an additional benefit of this solution, an extensive administrative module is provided enabling the user to change system configuration (adding or changing code lists, etc.) without having to invite a specialized contractor.

BENEFITS OF THE APPLICATION

- The application was tailored specifically for companies involved in executive search
- Possibility to create extension modules to the specific company needs
- Intuitive and user-friendly control
- Benefits of the online solution:
  - the staff access the application from any site connected to the Internet
  - possibility of online access for clients and candidates
  - no additional software needed – an Internet browser is enough
  - new features immediately available to all users
  - no need to synchronize data between different stations
- High-quality support and servicing, lifetime warranty for errors
- Import of existing data into the system
- English/Czech manual for the application

Our company as the solution manufacturer provides a regular application upgrade and professional consulting for every implementation. All our staff are trained in executive search before they begin programming the application.
